Aurora Managed Services appoints Adam Sullivan as Associate Director – Corporate Managed Services

LONDON, 11th February 2026: Aurora Managed Services ('Aurora'), today announced the appointment of Adam Sullivan as Associate Director – Corporate Managed Services.

Adam Sullivan has over twenty years of experience in delivering innovative and integrated workplace solutions, specifically with larger national and corporate organisations enhancing their productivity and efficiency.

Prior to Aurora Adam held director roles at key managed services companies leading their operations where, as a sales leader, he focused on developing teams to achievements of growth whilst maintaining a great service focus for multiple organisations across the UK.

Aurora's Group Sales Director, Paul Rylands said: "It's great to have Adam onboard to strengthen our corporate offering. His skills in team leadership and retaining a diverse portfolio of customers across various sectors makes him a fantastic addition to the Aurora team. Adam's abilities in providing the best technology and solutions for institutions makes him an excellent fit for Aurora and the direction we are heading."

Adam Sullivan commented, “I think that it’s fantastic to be joining Aurora at this time of expansion. There’s a terrific opportunity to develop their strong corporate offering even more than their current abilities and create opportunities for growth. The new developments and forward-thinking ideas they’re creating whilst continuing to offer a pro-active managed service to a variety of customers makes them the place to be.”

Ends.
